The foregoing report shows the financial condition of the State to be sound and healthy.

For though the receipts of the year do not quite equal the estimates in the Treasurer's last Annual Report, the deficiency will be seen to have proceeded from a falling off in these from Direct Taxes, and will be more than supplied by increased receipts from those taxes in the next and succeeding years.

From nearly all the other sources of revenue which have been provided to aid in paying the interest on the Public Debt, (and which in their nature are more liable to fluctuation,) the receipts have exceeded his estimates, and what is more satisfactory, have annually increased.

The Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail Road and the Susquehanna and Tide Water Canal companies, have also this year paid the current interest on their debts to the State, and give assurance, that they will continue to do so.

In February last, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 196, of 1847, the Treasurer took from the Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail Road company three Bonds, each for $345,326 92, together making the sum of $1,035,980 76, that being the amount due the State for interest to the 1st January, 1851.

These Bonds are not subject to interest till fifteen years after date, but if not then paid, will, with the other bonds of the company to the State, become a preferred debt.

The rapid increase in the revenues of this company justifies the inference that in no long time after these Bonds become due, they will be paid; but if this expectation be disappointed, there can be no doubt of the ability of the company, after that period, punctually to pay the interest on their whole debt, which in that event will amount to the sum of $3,168,126 07, relieving the State from the charge of interest on that amount of the public debt.

In January last, he was advised by the President of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road company, that they had disposed of the whole amount of the 5 per cent. Sterling Bonds of the State then remaining in their hands, to Messrs. Brown Brothers & Co., at the limit of 91 per cent, in this country; and that it had been stipulated in the contract that £50,000 of them should be reserved for the Sinking Fund, if the Treasurer should be disposed to take them at that limit.

Regarding this to be a very advantageous offer for the Fund, but aware that its ordinary revenue was inadequate to meet so large a demand, it became necessary to ascertain whether a sufficient amount might not probably be derived from the surplusses in the Treasury, which after certain contingencies were by chap. 238 of 1846, devoted to the use of the Sinking Fund.

A careful examination having satisfied him that after the 1st of July, these surplusses would enure to the Fund, and enable him by the 1st of October to meet the required payment; he replied that he would be pleased to accept the offer if the company would consent to receive the payment by instalments, the first on the 1st of July, the other on the 1st of October; to this proposal the company unhesitatingly assented, and the contract was made.

¶ On the 1st of July last, he paid $133,712 82, the outstanding balance of Funded Arrears of Interest on the Public Debt, and also the interest thereon, thus redeeming the plighted faith of the State, and removing an incubus which had long weighed heavily on the Treasury.

A retrospect of the financial struggle of the last ten years seems at such a time to be peculiarly appropriate; and the more acceptable because it will afford gratifying evidence of the great resources the State can in an emergency command.

At one period of this severe ordeal many of our most respectable citizens seeing the enormous debt rapidly increasing, despite the efforts of several successive Legislatures, believed the State to be certainly and rapidly approaching a most disastrous bankruptcy. Others happily more sanguine, relying on the stern integrity of their fellow citizens, while they admitted appearances to be very discouraging, still felt confident, they eventually would, by the discharge of all their liabilities, rescue the fair fame of their Mother State; and the result has most triumphantly justified that confidence.

In 1841 she first failed punctually to pay the interest on the public debt, from that time to the 1st of December, 1844, the arrear had accumulated to the fearful amount of $1,435,154 51, in 1845, this accumulation was at length arrested, and on the 1st of October, 1847, the day on which it was directed to be funded it had been reduced to about $900,000.

On the 1st of January, 1848, not without apprehension of failure in the minds of many, the State resumed the payment of the current interest on her main debt, since which time it has been regularly paid. In the same interval there has been paid on account of arrears of interest, and of interest on said arrears $1,034,817 07 and $594,951 26 of the debt of the State has been purchased for the use of the Sinking Fund.

In the fiscal year he has disbursed on account of the Convention $128,238, on account of funded arrears and interest thereon $141,608 09, and for augmentation of the Sinking Fund $116,211 44, together amounting to the sum of $386,057 90, and there remained in the Treasury a balance exceeding that of last year by about $5,000, showing that there will be annually about $400,000, applicable to the payment of the expenses of the Legislature and the augmentation of the Sinking Fund.
